Documents You Will Receive From Us

Statement of Advice and Record of Advice

The process of financial planning involves translating your personal financial affairs and goals into a written plan called a Statement of Advice. We will provide you with a Statement of Advice when we provide you with personal financial advice. A Statement of Advice is designed to help you determine whether and how you can meet your financial needs and goals through the proper management of your financial resources. The Statement of Advice includes information about:

- our specific advice;
- the basis of the specific advice;
- any remuneration, commissions and other benefits that we may receive;
- any conflicts of interest, associations or relationships that may influence the advice we provide you; and
- any other relevant information.

Your Adviser will provide you with a Statement of Advice before proceeding to act on your instructions. If you receive advice in a time critical situation, the Statement of Advice will be provided to you within five (5) days of the advice. The Statement of Advice will explain the significant risks associated with the strategies and financial products we recommend to you. If you do not fully understand the risks, you should ask us to explain those risks further.

If we provide further advice to you after we have issued the initial Statement of Advice, and your circumstances have not changed significantly, we will provide you with a Record of Advice.

We will retain all Statements of Advice and Records of Advice for at least seven (7) years from the date provided to you. You may request a copy of the Statement of Advice or Record of Advice at any time within that period. This request may be verbal or in writing.

Other Documents You May Receive

When we recommend a particular financial product, we will give you a Product Disclosure Statement (“PDS”) prepared by the product issuer. A PDS contains information prescribed by law to enable you to make an informed decision before acquiring a financial product.

The PDS includes details of the key features, benefits and risks of the product being recommended and product fees, including commissions that may apply.

Information You Need to Provide Us to Receive Personal Advice

You need to provide us with details about yourself, your family, your goals and your current financial situation. We also need details about your health, your current investments, risk protection and your attitude to investing, including the level of financial risk you are comfortable with. This information helps us offer you the most appropriate advice possible. You have the right not to provide this information. However, if you do not, we are required to warn you that the advice you receive may not be appropriate to your individual needs, lifestyle objectives and financial goals.

How Are Our Fees and Other Charges Calculated?

We will charge you a fee for any personal advice provided. These will be detailed in our engagement documents prior to the delivery of services. Our fees may be based on:

Your adviser will generally only recommend that you acquire Qi Financial's approved products, however we can recommend other products to you where it suits your objectives, financial situation and needs.

Our Compensation Arrangements

We hold a Professional Indemnity Insurance Policy which satisfies the requirements for compensation arrangements under section 912B of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth). Subject to its terms and conditions, the Policy provides cover for civil liability resulting from third party claims concerning the professional services provided by Qi Financial and its employees and representatives. The Policy continues to provide coverage where the employee or representative has subsequently left our employment for services performed while engaged by Qi Financial.

Other Compensation Arrangements

In addition to our Professional Indemnity Insurance, eligible retail clients may also be able to access the Compensation Scheme of Last Resort ("CSLR"). The CSLR is an independent scheme that can pay eligible consumers up to $150,000 where the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA) has made a determination relating to personal financial advice that remains unpaid, and the other eligibility requirements of the scheme are met. The CSLR does not replace our Professional Indemnity Insurance; it is a further avenue of last resort available to you if a valid AFCA determination against us is not paid. Further information about the CSLR is available at www.cslr.org.au.
